(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.) SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—(Special to The Advertiser)—After a successful battle against the flames, the Mount Tamalpais fire situation was virtually unchanged this evening, with every prospect that all danger of any of the towns threatened being destroyed, is now passed.

Muir Woods has not been touched and it is not considered to be in any real danger. The only possible chance of the present fire reaching the reservation would be through the Cascades, where a minor blaze is now regarded as practically under control.

Adjutant General Forbes of the California National Guard is in personal command of State troops, one thousand of whom are on the ground.

The nearest thing to a panic at Mill Valley came when a bunch of soldiers cutting a fire trail in Blithedale Canyon and attempting to back fire were suddenly showered by sparks and embers. ## Cousin of King George Aboard New Zealand

Much interest among service and society folk of Honolulu is manifested in the coming of Prince George of Battenberg, a sub-lieutenant aboard His Britannic Majesty's battle-cruiser New Zealand, due tomorrow afternoon.

Although the young prince, who was born in 1892, is a scion of the reigning family of England, he is entitled to no additional privileges aboard the warship than those accorded any other subaltern. He takes his watch and does his duties the same as any other junior officer.

Prince George is the son of Prince Louis Alexander of Battenberg, who holds the rank of vice admiral of the British Navy, and is personal aide-de-camp to King George V. In 1908 Admiral Prince Louis was commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet. He is the son of Prince Alexander of Hesse and grandson of Louis II, Grand Duke of Hesse. Young Prince George's mother is Princess Alice, daughter of the late Queen Victoria, and sister of the late King Edward VII. He is, therefore, a first cousin of King George V.

SALVOS TO GREET THE NEW ZEALAND

Booming of Cannon to Mark Arrival of Great British Battle Cruiser.

In response to a wireless query, sent out last night by Rear Admiral Moore, U. S. N., asking the draught and other dimensions of the battleship New Zealand, Captain Halsey, R. N., wired the following answer at nine o'clock: "Beam, eighty-two feet; draught, on arrival, twenty-eight feet aft, 25.5 feet forward; draught, after coaling, thirty feet aft, 28.9 feet forward."

This set of figures settles the problem of whether the New Zealand can enter the harbor without difficulty. The vessel will have plenty of water to spare beneath the keel, both in the channel and harbor.

When the British battle-cruiser New Zealand arrives off port at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Auckland, the vessel will be boarded by Lieutenant Stevens, U. S. N., aid to Rear Admiral Moore, U. S. N., commandant of the Honolulu and Pearl Harbor naval stations.

Lieutenant Stevens, on behalf of Admiral Moore, will offer the courtesies of the port to Captain Halsey, Royal Navy, and deliver to him the latest report of the Honolulu channel and harbor. Inquiry was made last night by wireless to ascertain the minimum, mean and maximum draughts of the vessel, and with this information the pilots and naval officers here will be able to mark the proper course for the New Zealand to travel in entering the harbor. The depth of the channel at low water is thirty-three feet.

National Salute as Welcome.

Captain Halsey will fire a salute of twenty-one guns on arriving off port, in honor of the American flag. The gun battery of Fort Armstrong will respond with twenty-one guns, also, in honor of the British flag. This will be the first time the Fort Armstrong battery has saluted a foreign warship.

The New Zealand on entering port will be assigned to a berth on the Ewa side of the Alakea wharf. The naval ship was found too narrow to berth both the New Zealand and the collier Glenartney together. The Ewa Alakea slip has ample width for the two vessels.

Captain Halsey may pay his respects to Rear Admiral Moore late tomorrow afternoon, should the American commander remain at his office. Otherwise the call will be made early Monday morning. On leaving the naval grounds, Captain Halsey will be given a salute of seven guns. When Admiral Moore after calling upon Captain Halsey on board the battleship, returns to shore, he will receive a battery salute of thirteen guns.
